STOCKWORTH REALTY GROUP WELCOMES THREE NEW AGENTS TO SALES TEAM

Windermere, Fla. – (December 30, 2010) Stockworth Realty Group has added three new agents to its sales team to serve the real estate needs of downtown Orlando’s award-winning master-planned community of Baldwin Park and surrounding areas and support its corporate relocation accounts.

Trenton Koch and Linda Loudon come to Stockworth from New Broad Street Realty, which specialized in residential sales in Baldwin Park and neighboring communities until it closed last month. Danny Hilwa was previously with Millennium Home Realty, a general real estate company in Orlando.

Stockworth, a cutting-edge brokerage for resale homes in the Central Florida area, has hired the three realtors to support its growing firm, which specializes in several areas of real estate including relocation buyers, resale properties and new home construction.

“With more than 25 years of combined residential real estate experience, these agents are a valuable addition to Stockworth’s sales team,” said Reeta Casey, president of Stockworth Realty Group. “Each brings a unique area of expertise, which will help us grow our services and reach.”

An 11-year real estate veteran, Koch has an extensive developer and builder background and has focused the last half of his career in residential resales and custom home sales. Koch successfully listed and sold homes in Central Florida's most sought-after neighborhoods, including Baldwin Park, Isleworth and Dr. Phillips. He holds a GRI designation and is a member of the Orlando Regional Realtor Association.

Loudon is a licensed realtor who has worked in Orlando's real estate market for more than six years. Bringing a well-rounded understanding of real estate beyond standard buyer and seller representation, Loudon has worked in general real estate with national residential realty company Keller Williams, as well as new home sales for production and custom home builders through Baldwin Park Realty and New Broad Street Realty. She is a member of the Orlando Regional Realtors Association, Mid-Florida Regional Multiple Listing Service and the Florida Association of Realtors.

A resident of Orlando for the last 33 years, Hilwa is a staple of the area's real estate. An accredited luxury home specialist, Hilwa has worked with buyers and sellers of high-end homes in neighborhoods such as Dr. Phillips and Bay Hill since 2001. Fluent in Spanish and Arabic, the licensed realtor was named agent of the year for three consecutive years by Masters Realty.
